Art Unit: 1773

1. Claims 1, 6, 11-14, 43-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no support in the application as filed for the negative limitation "oriented non-perpendicular to the tapered channel." There is no disclosure expressly excluding perpendicular side channels.

2. The amendment filed November 21, 2011 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: There is no support in the application as filed for the negative limitation "oriented non-perpendicular to the tapered channel." There is no disclosure expressly excluding perpendicular side channels.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

3. Claim 44 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

4. In claim 44, it is unclear whether the central channel is the same or different from the tapered channel.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1773

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1773

9. Claims 1, 6, 11, 14, 43-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Knapp (2003/0104466).

10. Knapp teaches tapered channels 934 and 936, which are each centrally located between the top or bottom edge of the chip 902 and the side channels 904-918 and 924-932 (Fig. 9). The side channels are in a repeating pattern parallel to the side edges of the chip 902. The side channels are not perpendicular to the tapered channels in that the tapered channels are shown as being slightly angled with respect to the parallel channels. That is, the small end of channel 934 is slightly lower than the wide end, and the small end of channel 936 is slightly higher than the wide end. With respect to claim 11, it is the examiner's position that at some flow rate in the tapered channel and side channels, the claim is satisfied. Note that no structures for generating particular flow rates are claimed. It is the examiner's position that if DNA were flowing at an appropriate rate through the tapered microfluidic channel, elongation would inherently occur.

11. Claims 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Knapp as applied to claims above.

12. Knapp fails to teach the claimed cross sectional areas.

13. With respect to claims 12-13, side channel size is a result-effective variable and it would have been obvious to size the side channels so as to provide desired flow volumes between the side channels and the tapered channel.

14. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims above have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Art Unit: 1773

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
